

PRICES ON CURB ARE IRREGULAR Trading Moderate and Demand for Oils and Allied Stocks is Continued.

Moderate trading occurred in the market for Curb securities yesterday, but the general tone was still somewhat irregular. The continued demand for a few higher priced oils and other companies in some way connected with oil properties was the main feature.

General April shares were in renewed demand, although realizing and professional selling in the early part of the session forced the common and the preferred issues slightly lower.

The oil, being another point to new high record. A few Standard Oil stocks also displayed strength.
